

CITY COURT JUDGESHIPS ARE LEGITIMATE PREY OF POLITICAL SOLDIERS

Mayor Lee's Declaration of the Basis upon Which Factional Squabble Rests.

What the "Organization" Wants is Backbone of Argu- ment for Foster-Wilder State Before Judiciary Com- mittee -- "Youngs" Claim to Represent Republican Rank and File--Mr. Beard Turned Down by Commit- tee.

Mayor Henry Lee told the Judiciary committee at Hartford yesterday that in his judgment the city court judgeships are legitimate prey of political soldiers.

In the presence of a hall full of people, some curious and some anxious, he declared his belief that the position for which the "younger" and "older" elements of the Republican party is struggling is a political one; therefore it belongs to the dominant faction of the party.

The frank assertion of the mayor did not altogether please some of the lawyers present, for they would like to have it appear that the judgeships are not political plum. He was hurried away at the whim of certain bosses and bosses.

One would think, to hear State's Attorney Judson speak, that political considerations should not suffice to determine the winner, yet about every one who spoke laid particular stress upon the political feature of the contest and worked the political argument for all it was worth.

There was a smile that broadened into a laugh when the mayor sprang the "97 per cent." gag. Yesterday, there were, as far as numbers went, about an even break between the advocates of the two slates. Selectman Frank Braithwaite, when his opportunity came, told the committee that the mayor was in the right church, but in the wrong pew, when he tried to make anyone believe that 97 per cent of Republicans favor the Foster slate.

"Take it from me gentlemen," said Mr. Braithwaite, "that the percentage is about 70 and 30. The mayor and his followers are in the 30 per cent class."

There was a laugh at this.

John T. King and State's Attorney Judson crossed swords. Mr. Judson, in his talk for the Foster slate, had given Prosecutor DeLaney a strong recommendation, speaking of how well all of the cases coming up to the superior court from the city court had been prepared. It was the understanding of the state's attorney that the selection of Judge Foster meant the retention of Mr. DeLaney as prosecutor, which he deemed to be a highly desirable performance, from the view point of the court's efficiency.

Mr. Judson argued at length in favor of the Foster-Wilder slate. He said Judge Foster and Attorney Wilder were entitled to consideration on the theory of precedent which had been set in the court for years. It was to be considered a factor as to which side had the support of the political organization; they had the support of the majority of the senators and representatives from their city. The Foster slate was backed by the major portion of the Republican strength in their city; they were the choice of the political government of Bridgeport. It was shown by the appearance in their behalf of the mayor; and they were the choice of the majority of the members of the bar of Bridgeport.

Senator Judson then the name "Old Men" applied to the element backing Foster and Wilder was a misnomer. He had observed that nearly all of the active elements back of their candidates were hustling young men. Senator Judson suggested that, inasmuch as it had been rumored that Representative F. A. Bartlett, a member of the Judiciary committee, had been appointed in the city court in event of the selection of Elbert O. Hull as judge, the Bridgeport representative should not sit with the committee when it was considering the merits of the case.

John T. King asked Mr. Judson if he was not prompted by some other motive than the preparation of cases, in taking part in the fight.

"Do you think I am placing political plunder before the interests of the state?" retorted Mr. Judson.

Mr. King persisted. He wanted to have Mr. Judson tell why Frank L. Wilder was not elevated to be prosecutor, but instead shoved up to deputy judge if the honor and that for provail.

Mr. Judson said he had no knowledge of the inner workings agreed upon or proposed. He believed Mr. Foster was morally entitled to be promoted and he was satisfied that Prosecutor DeLaney, who had made an exceptionally efficient prosecuting attorney, would be retained when Foster was made judge.

Mr. King then asked Judge Nicholson why Wilder was not picked for prosecutor and Delaney for deputy if the promotion idea was all right. Judge Nicholson answered that Mr. DeLaney expressed a preference to remain as prosecutor and his wishes were considered, hence the elevation of Mr. Wilder to be deputy in event of favorable action by the legislature.

Mr. King went on to say that he did not propose to mince words. He believed Hull and Gould were superior to Foster and Wilder in ability and that their appointment would please the Republicans of Bridgeport.

Sensors Holzer and Manwaring and Representative Clarke urged the committee to recommend the Foster-Wilder slate. Charles M. Cole, a director of the Bridgeport Business Men's Association, spoke highly of Judge Foster and said he was earnestly fitted for the position and that for 11 consecutive years he had been made counsel of the Bridgeport Business Men's Association.

Senator Holzer said that with two exceptions, Hull and Bartlett, all of the members of the Republican town committee had signed a petition, requesting the appointment of Foster and Wilder. Holzer said that Frank L.

BIG WAREHOUSES IN CHICAGO ARE FOOD FOR FLAMES

Falling Walls Injure Half a Dozen Firemen, But None Fatally.

Score of Fire Companies Working to Subdue the Conflagration.

Buildings Occupied by Dick- inson Co. as Seed and Plant Storage and Are Valued at About $1,000,- 000--Fire Caught from Explosion of Dust and Gas.

(Special from United Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 26.—A general alarm of fire was turned in this morning when two twelve story warehouses of the Albert Dickinson Company caught fire. The company is one of the biggest seed and plant concerns and the warehouses were filled. The fire started from an explosion of dust and gas in one of the buildings. The warehouses cover two square blocks and with their contents are valued at about $1,000,000. At 9:15 o'clock there were two scores of fire companies working on the fire. It was believed the spread of the flames would be checked.

At 9:30 one of the walls of the burning warehouses fell and six firemen were believed to have been caught under it. The six firemen supposed to have perished were members of fire companies Nos. 3 and 37 who were fighting the flames on the south side of the warehouses. They were seen to be not more than twenty feet from the wall when it fell suddenly. Fire Chief Horan ordered a squad to clear away the debris and search for the bodies.

Firemen under the direction of Chief Horan worked in the debris for an hour and the Horan announced that none of the men imbricall had been killed. The six men who were supposed to have perished, it developed later, had all been struck by pieces of the wall and injured but none fatally.

Many lives were imperiled and several firemen injured to-day in a fire which destroyed the two big warehouses of the Albert Dickinson Seed and Plant Company here causing a loss of $1,000,000 to the buildings and contents. Six firemen working near the South wall of the building were unable to get away in time when the huge wall fell. Chief Horan detailed a squad to dig them out at once however, and all were rescued alive.

It is believed any were fatally injured. The fire resulted from an explosion of dust accumulated in Warehouse No. 1. The flames spread with astonishing rapidity and thirty-five fire companies and two fireboats were ordered to the scene.

The fire is still burning fiercely.

SENATOR CARMACK FEARED ATTACK AND ARMED HIMSELF

Procured a Pistol Only the Day Before He Met Death at Hands of Coopers.

(Special from United Press.)

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 26.—Evidence that Senator Carmack, fearing he would be attacked by Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, armed himself only the day before he was finally shot to death, proved the sensation to-day in the trial of Colonel Cooper, his son Robin and John D. Sharp for the murder of the ex-senator.

This evidence was developed by the defense in the afternoon and drew the killing of Carmack was a street duel in which he was shot by Robin Cooper in self-defense. It came toward the close of the morning session when Major Cooper, formerly of the Fourth Tennessee Volunteers, identified the pistol found beside the body of Carmack after the killing. It had two hilts exploded and a previous witness had sworn that it had been "recently fired."

Colonel Cooper on the stand declared he had been misquoted yesterday when he gave $100,000 for the defense. The amount was $50, he declared and he stated that he was sorry that he had told it at all.

The next witness called was Sergeant Meaders of the police who took possession of the pistols after the killing. Sergeant Meaders identified the pistols that he took from Robin Cooper and his father, and from the body of Lieutenant Winston Pilcher, U. S. A. retired, who identified the pistol he picked up near Senator Carmack's body.

J. P. MORGAN & CO. TAKE BIG BOND ISSUE OF SOUTHERN RAILWAY

(Special from United Press.)

New York, Feb. 26.—The Southern Railway Company has sold to a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., $21,000,000 general development four per cent bonds a part of the proceeds of which will be used to make up the $18,000,000 short term notes of the company, maturing April first.

ert C. Mallette, Attorney F. D. Keeler, and ex-Alderman F. D. Ives.

Rev. Mr. Beard of the Park Street Congregational church appeared and spoke against Judge Foster because the Bridgeport Pastors' Association was opposed to Prosecutor DeLaney, but the committee decided that the matter was one they had no interest in, and Mr. Beard's remarks were ordered not made part of the record.

Mr. Beard to specify what his charges were, but the committee said it did not care to hear anything more about that matter. Attorney Chamberlain, although opposed to the Foster slate, told the committee that personally he considered Mr. DeLaney had made an efficient and competent prosecutor and that he had no knowledge that he had ever been derelict in his duty as prosecutor. This ended the hearing. Mr. Beard, putting his charges back into his pocket, left the chamber.

WHAT WATER COSTS IN TOM JOHNSON'S CITY

Read these facts taken from the annual report of the city water works of Cleveland, of which the famous report, Edward W. Bemis, is superinten-

"In all that has just been stated no reference is made to the 2,500 users of property for industrial purposes, or for large hotels and business blocks. Such properties were never on the assessment basis, but under the meter system pay less than they would pay in most of the large cities of the country. Of the 57,115 services that were metered in October 23,909 had an average semi-annual bill of only $1.65. And another 19,933 metered connections had an average of $2.57. Combining these two there were 43,862 connections, or 76.79 per cent. of all those that were metered, or 60 per cent. of all the services in use in the city, that paid only an average of $2.07 for the six months, or at the rate of $4.14 for the year. When it is remembered that there is an average of about seven people, or perhaps one and one-half families, on a service, the charge per family is evidently on the average not more than $3 per year for two-thirds of the population.

"A prominent engineer connected with a private water company has maintained that there should not have been so large a reduction of revenue with the setting of meters. He thinks a much higher rate should have been charged to the 50,000 house connections.

"This is what a private company would have done.

"Where the city owns the plant it naturally gives the profits from meters to the consumer."

In Cleveland the per capita use of water is 120 gallons per day. The rate per hundred cubic feet is to domestic users a little more than five cents. The rate in Bridgeport is 12 cents per hundred cubic feet to domestic users. This permits a use of water amounting to about 30 gallons per person per day under the minimum charge made by the company.

Private water companies do not give the profits from meters to consumers.

SIXTY SIT AT MEN'S CLUB FEAST

George L. Hubbell, President of Federa- tion, Presides as Toastmaster.

Nearly sixty men sat down to the first annual banquet of the Men's Club of the West End Congregational church, last night. Besides the members of the club, and their friends, the presidents of various church organizations for men of the city were present.

George L. Hubbell, president of the club, presided as toastmaster. The pastor, Rev. W. Irving Maurer, gave a word of greeting to the men.

Addresses were made by H. A. Chaffee, of Washington Park Methodist church, president of the recently organized Federation of Men's clubs of the city. Mr. Chaffee emphasized the importance of the social interest in the work of Men's club. In his opinion Men's clubs should guard themselves against the temptation of spending their strength and enthusiasm on social and literary matters, such as the bringing of the organization to a speedy curtailment of effectiveness. He explained the purpose of the Federation as being the uniting of all church members in great questions of civic or spiritual concern.

Rev. Henry Hallam Tweedy of South Congregational church, gave a stirring address on the theme, "Men and the Church." He explained the importance with which ministers present the matter of church attendance to men, as arising not because the ministers want a greater number of men for their own sake but for the sake of the men. The principal thing is not services but service.

"Every service of the church gives you an opportunity," said he, "of carrying out into your work and business the principles of our great religion. We pray 'Thy Kingdom Come,' but too often that is as far as it goes. Upon the men of this church devolves the sacred duty of helping to make this earth a heaven, and only as this is brought to pass, can the heaven be enjoyed."

The evening closed with the singing of America.

STILL SEARCHING FOR MISSING GOODS

George M. Allerton of the Seams Rubber Company of New Haven was in town, this morning, looking up a shipment of 30 cases of rubber goods, which were on the steamer John H. Martin when she was wrecked on the breakwater. The goods were found at the Rickard storehouse where they had been sent by the police. These cases came ashore at Seaside Beach and were loaded by the police arrived on the scene the morning after the wreck. Only a small portion of their original contents has been found. The police are still receiving up clocks and other articles which came ashore and were picked up by different parties. Some of the shipment of rubber goods was found in the wreck when the steamer was wrecked, but the rest is still several days to be accounted for.

Eight rifles of different patterns are still missing from a shipment from the Winchester Arms Company. The police have received a full list of the missing goods.

"GOOD LUCK" LOMBARD FINDS 40 TOO MANY

About forty remonstrants against the application of Dick Lombard for a license to sell beer on the street, headed by Rev. William H. Lynch, of St. Charles church, appeared at the County Commissioners office this morning. Up to 10:30 the genial Dick had been in appearance, but at that time the phone rang, with "Good Luck" at one end of the line.

Dick wanted to know if many people were present, and when it was made known to him that there were over 40, he replied that the hearing was no place for him. When the remonstrants were informed that by the non-appearance of Lombard the application was withdrawn, they cheered and clapped their hands.

O'MARA SUIT IS SETTLED FOR $750

Counsel for the Connecticut Co. in the case of William O'Mara against the company, agreed to a settlement yesterday afternoon on the basis of $750. The suit grew out of injuries sustained by the plaintiff March 3, 1907, when he was struck by a trolley car from a car going west at Seelye and State streets, to allow a woman to enter. The conductor signalled to the motorman to go ahead and the trolley proceeded to the south side of the street, but was struck by an east bound car and received a compound fracture of the jaw and injuries to his head and shoulders. He asked for $100,000 damages. O'Mara was represented by Attorneys Cullinan & Cullinan.

DIVER DARM USES STREAM ON RIVER BOTTOM

Novel Plan Adopted to Trench Submarine Wires in Bed of Pequonnock.

A stream of water from a 3 inch hose connected with a hydrant in Congress street, is being used by Albert Darm, at the bottom of the Pequonnock river, to extricate the cables of the Electric Light Company, the Telephone Company and the fire alarm telegraph from the mud.

In connection with the building of the new Congress street bridge a trench has been dug across the river north of the site of the old bridge, so that the cables will lie below the bed of the river. Diver Darm found it unsafe to work in the trench, as he sank in the black, slimy mud up to his neck, and it was with difficulty his attendants were able to extricate him.

With a fifteen pound weight upon the nozzle, to steady the stream, the diver is today rapidly rushing the work of trenching to completion. By walking along the edge of the trench and holding the stream of water into the mud he frees the cables and they readily drop into position.

EASTON SKELETON MAY BE THAT OF MARY CHAPMAN OF VIVIDLY ROMANTIC PAST

Superintendent Birmingham Recalls Strange Visitor of Several Years Ago.

The Skeleton is of an Aged Woman, Whose Teeth Were Missing, Who Wore Black Garments and Had Gray Hair, All Descriptive of Chapman Woman—Mrs. Keys, Who Probably Knew Skeleton Woman, Died at 80, Last Fall.

Who was the woman whose skeleton, grown through with grass and roots of clinging vines, was found in Easton, by the Logan boys? That she was not a tramp, but on the contrary, one, who although perhaps in humble circumstances, had friends seems almost certain, in view of the facts that have been brought to light to-day by the inquiries of Medical Examiner M. V. B. Dunham of Greenfield Hill, and by Superintendent Birmingham. She may have been Clara Chapman, of this city about whose past a mystery hovers.

That she is the same woman who about four years ago stopped at the residence of Elmer S. Andrews in Easton seems practically certain.

In a talk with Medical Examiner Dunham, yesterday afternoon, Mr. Andrews recalled something more definitely the appearance of the woman, who sought the hospitality of his home. That she was an old lady of slight figure, and of intelligent speech, he remembers.

George L. Hubbell, president of the club, presided as toastmaster. The pastor, Rev. W. Irving Maurer, gave a word of greeting to the men.

Addresses were made by H. A. Chaffee, of Washington Park Methodist church, president of the recently organized Federation of Men's clubs of the city. # EASTON SKELETON MAY BE THAT OF MARY CHAPMAN OF VIVIDLY ROMANTIC PAST

Superintendent Birmingham Recalls Strange Visitor of Several Years Ago.

The Skeleton is of an Aged Woman, Whose Teeth Were Missing, Who Wore Black Garments and Had Gray Hair, All Descriptive of Chapman Woman—Mrs. Keys, Who Probably Knew Skeleton Woman, Died at 80, Last Fall.

There is no Olive street in Derby. But a dead end from that city, this morning states that a Mrs. J. B. Keys formerly lived at 95 Olivia street, Derby. Mrs. Keys was 80 years old. She died last fall, a widow, her husband having died several years ago. Clara Chapman, who many years ago was well known here, especially to the element that makes the sporting world. About three years ago, a little old woman came into the office of Superintendent Birmingham at police headquarters, and asked for advice. She was on her way to a town in the neighborhood of this city, where she hoped to find a place as housekeeper for a bachelor. This is the story she told Birmingham. The superintendent recognized her as the formerly brilliant and vivacious Mary Chapman, although she was a shadow of her old self. She carried a bundle wrapped in paper and held by a shawl strap. Her hair was gray. She was fairly well dressed. Superintendent Birmingham remembers that she wore a black waist. He also remembers that most of her front teeth were missing.

It may well be that the place to which she was bound was Easton. There are certainly several points of striking resemblance, in the age of the woman whose remains were found in Easton.
